HE'S FOR JACK — Ohio's Gov. Michael DiSalle announces he will be a favorite son candidate in the state's May 3rd presidential primary. He said he will bring his delegates—fourth largest unit in the country—to the Democratic convention in support of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.). DiSalle looks over some of the 30,000 signatures from 70 counties supporting his decision to run.

Council Delays General Fund Action

Funds Set Aside For Water, Sewage

Appropriation ordinances totaling $298,900 for Sewage Department and Water Department expenses during 1960 were approved last night by Salem City Council.

The ordinances, both passed unanimously as emergency measures, call for maximum expenditures of $186,000 in the Water Department and $112,900 in the Sewage Department.

Compared to figures of last year's income, as revealed last night by Aubrey Hayes, superintendent of utilities, the appropriation is $28,694.98 more than the revenues of 1959.

During the last year, the Water Department's revenues amounted to $181,012.57 and the Sewage Department's $89,192.45.

This morning Hayes explained that the total expenses in the two departments for the year 1959 were $289,309.01. The distribution of the expenses shows the Water Department spent $178,446.80 while the Sewage Department spent $110,862.21. The difference between the income and the expenses of the two departments shows a $19,103.99 deficit.

Deficit Is Covered
However, Hayes pointed out that the deficit has been covered by a reserve remaining from the days when the sewage rate was 65 per cent of the water rate.

He also noted that the decline in income in the two departments could partially be attributed to the closing of Plant 3 of the American-Standard Corp.

Comparing the 1960 budget to the 1959 budget for the two departments, figures show this year's budget to be $15,572 lower. Last year, the city budgeted $192,227 for Water and $122,245 for Sewage.

Highest estimated expenditures in 1960 for both departments is the payment of bonds and interest necessitated by the construction in the last decade of the water expansion project and the addition to the city sewage plant.

Bonds and interest in the Water fund this year will cost the city's taxpayers $72,000. In the Sewage Department the same item will cost $44,000.

Other Expenditures
Other major items in the Water appropriation include salaries, $11,500; supply payroll $18,600; chemicals $9,100; stationery and incidentals $3,200; electrician and assistant $3,350; current and fuel $18,000; distribution payroll $26,000; Public Employees Retirement System $5,200; distribution maintenance, $5,500; and pipe extension, $4,000.

In the Sewage appropriation the major items include office salaries $9,100; plant and maintenance

Mayor Tells Council He Wants Cooperation

Mayor Dean Cranmer asserted himself on City Council floor last night.

It was the first meeting of Council and the mayor since he won election in November.

Mayor Cranmer said emphatically that any complaints that come to councilmen from citizens or employees of the city should be brought to him.

He said he has noted that there has been considerable bickering in the last couple of years but that he wanted no arguing in his next two years.

He said that if there were any complaints to be made against the executive division of the city, he would appreciate it if they were kept off the Council floor.

Mayor Cranmer said he was in the position to do a job and that he wanted to get it done without any arguments.

32 DEAD IN CRASH OF AIRLINER

Severe Storm Rips Southwest, Moves South

Five Dead as Frigid Blast Blocks Roads, Disrupts Services

By The Associated Press
A fast-moving snow storm which hit the Southwest swept into the South today, leaving a heavy blanket of white from Arkansas into North Carolina. Dixie shivered in the first big snow storm of the winter.

The season's first big snow fall—and the biggest in many years in some areas—curtailed travel, closed schools and disrupted telephone and power service. The storms were blamed for at least five deaths.

Nearly Foot of Snow
Nearly a foot of snow made a wintry scene in parts of the Southland.

The far-ranging storm dumped a snow covering that stretched from eastern New Mexico, Oklahoma and the northern third of Texas eastward through Arkansas, southern Missouri and Tennessee into Kentucky, southwestern Virginia, the western Carolinas and north Georgia.

Arkansas sloshed through the biggest snowfall in 38 years. The season's first storm dumped nearly 11 inches in Little Rock and from 2 to 7 inches in most of the state.

Heaviest snow falls in years were reported in many areas. The seven inches at Nashville was the deepest in nine years.

Sleet Adds to Condition

Sleet added to the treacherous conditions on highways and on railroad tracks. Bus and train travel was delayed. Some plane flights were canceled.

The storm, which reached blizzard intensity in parts of the Southwest Tuesday, swept eastward and heaviest snow during the night was in Tennessee and Kentucky.

The storm in the Southwest forced schools to close, stalled scores of motorists and made driving hazardous. At least two deaths were blamed on the storm in the Southwest. Three others were reported in the Southeast. Three persons were missing in a private plane in the Southwest storm belt.

Snow measured up to 10 inches in the central Texas Panhandle and nearly a foot in parts of Oklahoma. Two to 6 inches fell in New Mexico.

Cold Wave Moderates
As the Southern areas battled winter's first big snow storm, the severe cold wave moderated in some Northern regions. It was still cold in other border areas.

It was cold in the Southwest snow belt, as skies cleared in New Mexico and western parts of the Texas Panhandle. Temperatures dipped to near zero in the Texas Panhandle.

But it was much colder in northern Minnesota as another surge of arctic air swept in from Canada. It was near 20 degrees below zero again this morning in International Falls, on the Canadian border as the early January cold snap continued in many parts of the Midwest.

Barrett Files For State Assembly

Ben Barrett, a Salem High School teacher for 19 years, filed today with the county election board to seek one of two nominations as state representative in the May 3 primaries.

Barrett is the second Democrat to enter. First to file was Bernard Freeman of Columbiana, operator of a jewelry store in Leetonia and also a deputy in the county auditor's office at Lisbon. Because of periodic reapportionment, Columbiana County will elect two state representatives for the next term.

Rep. Clarence L. Wetzel of Lisbon, the Republican incumbent, already has announced for a new term.

Barrett, whose teaching career spans 27 years, served as Salem football coach for 13 years. It is his first bid for political office. His brother, Tom Barrett of Youngstown, is a state representative from Mahoning County.

Legislative Body Convenes 2 Explosive Issues on Congress Agenda

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress convenes today with two explosive issues on the early agenda and a presidential election breathing down its collective neck.

Civil rights and federal aid to education are the issues likely to figure in early battles. A half dozen other hot measures are bound to generate partisan squabbles and heated words.

Provide Sounding Board

The second session of the 86th Congress will provide the sounding board for at least five senators eyeing the Democratic presidential nomination. Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who has an apparent stranglehold on the Republican nomination, also sits in the Senate as presiding officer.

In addition, 33 senators and all 437 members of the House are up for re-election or replacement in this fall.

In that atmosphere, the session may set a record for sheer volume of oratory.

Party Leaders Already Have Set

a tentative adjournment date—July 4, a week before the Democratic national convention starts in Los Angeles and three weeks before the Republicans gather in Chicago.

Annual Cry For Economy

The annual cry for economy came from Rep. Clarence Cannon

(D-Mo.), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

"The budget goes up and up every year," complained Cannon Tuesday night. "The interest on the national debt goes up and up. Wartime tax rates are kept in effect, and there is no hope or expectation of cutting taxes."

"I am very much disappointed at the size of the budget (about $1 billion dollars). It must be cut."

Minor housekeeping details will occupy today's Senate and House sessions. On hand to succeed the late William Langer (R-ND) in the Senate is another Republican, former Gov. Norman Brunsdale. In the House, Republican John Kyl of Iowa succeeds the late Steven Carter, a Democrat.

When they are sworn in, the Democratic majority will be 65 to 35 in the Senate, and 280 to 153 in the House. There will be four House vacancies.

President Eisenhower delivers his annual State of the Union message Thursday to a joint session. He is expected to stress the "peace and prosperity" theme already adopted by the GOP as its 1960 campaign slogan.

Since this is a continuation of last year's Congress, the 1959 organization carries over, along with some 12,000 bills and resolutions not acted on in the last session.

Meter Income Shows Decline

$27,344 Received During Past Year

A sharp dip was recorded in Salem's parking meter receipts in 1959.

The decline, according to Mrs. Helen Coyne, city auditor, was about $1,343.44 under the receipts recorded for 1958. It was the first time meter revenue had showed a drop since 1951-52.

From 1952 and through 1958, receipts were on a steady upswing, and by 1958, had reached the all-time high of $28,687.66. Last year's receipts were $27,344.

Although the receipts for 1959 were off, the revenue last March was the highest for any one month in the last two years.

March's total receipts were recorded at $2,931.60. This figure, along with all other figures, includes 25 cent parking tickets paid within the 24-hour time limit allowed by law.

The lowest monthly collection in the two-year period was recorded in January of this year when only $1,794.92 was taken in.

Average monthly collections during 1959 were $112.12 lower than those for 1958, the auditor reported.

The monthly collection figures for the last two years are as follows: (1958 in parentheses) January $1,794.92 ($2,044.56); February, $2,307.41 ($2,128.14); March $2,931.61 ($2,144.98); April $2,372.97 ($2,307.14); May $2,054.06 ($2,225.35); June $2,533.74 ($2,216.47); July $1,972.03 ($2,714.81); August, $1,903.96 ($2,192.95); September, $2,644.63 ($2,680.07); October $2,134.69 ($2,218.72); November $2,164.32 ($2,316.77); and December $2,529.88 ($2,867.39).

Since 1949 parking meter receipts have climbed steadily, according to Mrs. Coyne. However, the comparisons reflect the increase in the number of downtown parking met-

Alexander Is Retained As City Council Clerk

Charles Alexander, clerk of Salem City Council was re-elected by that group to a second two-year term, ending Dec. 31, 1961.

Alexander has held the post for the last two years.

His only competition was Richard L. Cobourn of Fairview Ct. The vote was six to one in favor of Alexander.

Mr. Cobourn's application was read to Council by Carl C. Abe, councilman-at-large, who sat in for Alexander while the voting was completed.

Fred Koenreich, councilman-at-large, was elected unanimously to the post of Council vice president. He succeeds R. M. Linder, who was defeated for re-election to Council in November.

In Council appointments, Councilmen Harold J. Astry and Ralph

Jury Visits Murder Scene In Finch Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carole Tregoff's icy composure melted into tears as a jury viewed the scene where, prosecutors say, she and Dr. R. Bernard Finch murdered his wife.

While his pretty onetime receptionist and admitted mistress wept, the handsome surgeon maintained the relaxed, professional-like calm he has shown since trial testimony started Monday.

The locale is a hillside home in suburban West Covina where Barbara Jean Finch, 36, was beaten and shot to death the night of July 18.

The state says the 41-year-old doctor and Miss Tregoff, 23, his former receptionist, killed Mrs. Finch so they could marry and keep community property Mrs. Finch once estimated at $750,000. They are charged with conspiracy and murder.

Miss Tregoff, shapely and red haired, cried at the counsel table in a Los Angeles courtroom Tuesday when the judge ordered court renounced at the death scene 25 miles to the east.

Carole cried again as the court was called to order before the garage where the state says she and Dr. Finch lay in wait to kill his wife.

But Finch chatted affably with two sisters as he waited under guard for jurors to reach the $65,000 home.

He stood unemotionally as Superior Court Judge Walter R. Evans showed the jurors the spot where Mrs. Finch died in a neighbor's lawn, her skull fractured in three places and her body pierced by a pistol slug.

FINED BY COUNTY JUDGE

LISBON — Lloyd H. Heid, 53, of Gnadenhutten was fined $5, and costs Tuesday by County Judge James L. MacDonald after he pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless operation. He was cited by the State Highway Patrol.

Three Gunmen Get $1,400 In District

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Three gunmen wearing stocking masks held up North Side Recreation, Inc., a bowling center here, shortly before midnight Tuesday and escaped with almost $1,400.

The manager, Peter Gillespie, told police the robbers ordered him to open the safe, but he told them he didn't have a key. The robbers then ordered him to hand over his wallet containing $700 and took more than $600 from two cash registers, he added.

No attempt was made to rob some 60 patrons, who were forced to walk down the bowling lanes with their hands up.

Lisbon Board Re-elects Bacon

Authorizes Purchase Of New School Bus

LISBON — At a reorganization meeting of the Lisbon School Board Tuesday night Dr. Wade Bacon and Edwin L. Kauffman were re-elected president and vice president, respectively.

Walter E. Taylor Jr. was sworn in as a new member succeeding Fred Rose, along with William H. Hailey and William Morgan. Henry T. Dawes is the clerk.

The board authorized the purchase of a new 66-passenger school bus from the lowest bidder, the Burton Ford Co., on its bid of $6,695. There were three other bids: Hill International, $6,884; Lewis Chevrolet, $7,060; and Leyman Dodge, $7,304.35.

A temporary appropriation of $130,100 was approved for the first four months of the year. The board purchased a glass backboard for the high school gymnasium at an estimated cost of $250. The Lisbon Booster Club will purchase the other one for the school.

The board authorized a high school diploma be issued to Mrs. Ruth Chamberlain Schrammberger of Columbiana RD.

It authorized the attendance of Supt. Loren Early at the national convention of the American Association of School Administrators at Atlantic City Feb. 13-17. Principal Dave Borrow will be permitted to attend the professional conference for Ohio elementary school principals in Columbus, Feb. 4-6.

Supt. Early discussed the remedial reading program taught by Howard Leyman.

The East Palestine, Columbiana and Lisbon school boards will meet at Leetonia school Wednesday, Jan. 27, for a discussion on school problems.

The Lisbon - Wellsville basketball game was reported to have taken in $216.82.

The next board meeting will be held Tuesday, Feb. 9 at 7:30 p.m.

Grand Jury to Get Two New Cases

LISBON — Two new cases were added to the January Grand Jury Tuesday by Prosecutor G. William Brokaw still expects the jury to report sometime Thursday afternoon.

The two cases added were Walter R. Kline, 59, of Alliance, forger in passing a check for $25 at the Sears Roebuck store in Salem Nov. 23.

James B. Bagley, 22, of Lisbon RD 4 and Ronald G. Carter, 25, of Berry, N.H., burglary of Joe's Place, 161 W. State St., Salem, Nov. 21, in which $8.50 worth of wine was stolen.

Fifteen witnesses have been subpoenaed in four cases for Thursday, Brokaw said.

Twenty witnesses were to be examined today in nine cases which include two for second degree manslaughter; two burglaries, auto theft, assault, driving while intoxicated and disturbing the peace.

Craft Falls In Woods Near Bolivia, N.C.

Evidence Indicates Midair Explosion; 7 Bodies Recovered

BOLIVIA, N. C. (AP)—A National Airlines four-engine plane with 32 persons aboard crashed in woods near here today.

The North Carolina Highway Patrol said it thought there were no survivors.

Seven bodies had been recovered.

The patrol said the big plane had burst upon the ground 2 1/4 miles southwest of Bolivia, a village 25 miles southwest of Wilmington.

Doyle Howard, a reporter on the scene from the Wilmington News, said it appeared the plane had exploded in the air.

Debris was scattered over a half mile radius on a farm in the swampy, wooded area.

There was no sign of fire after the plane struck, he said.

Howard said the largest part of the plane he saw was a wing and half of the fuselage "all ripped to pieces."

The scene is about 12 miles from the Atlantic coastline.

The plane, carrying a crew of five and 27 passengers, was on a non-stop flight from New York to Miami.

The B16 night flying coach, a DC6B, was last heard from at 2:31 a. m. At that time the plane was just south of Wilmington when the pilot made a check.

The flight plan called for the plane to hug the coast on the leg from New York to Wilmington, then to swing out to sea for the overwater leg to Palm Beach.

Weather conditions were to dictate when the plane was to turn over the Atlantic.

Clouds and rain lay in the plane's route as it passed Wilmington. But, said a spokesman, the big coach should have found clearing skies south of Wilmington.

Airlines officials said the craft had enough gasoline to remain aloft until 7:06 a.m. It was due at Miami at 11:52 p. m.

Word that the plane was missing touched off a widespread search along the coast.

A NAL plane less than two months ago crashed into the Gulf of Mexico, killing 42 persons aboard. It was on a flight from Miami to New Orleans. Most of the bodies and wreckage remain unrecovered.

United Picks Blanchard As Board Head

Howard Blanchard of Kensington was elected president of the United Local Board of Education at the board's reorganization meeting on Monday night.

Elected vice president was Walter Blythe of Hanoverton, who has served on the board for the last four years.

Mr. Blythe, along with Orlan Weingart, a board member for the last 12 years and a past president, were re-elected last November and sworn in Monday night.

Other members of the board are Willard Cope, RD 3, Salem, and Elmer Stamp, RD 1, Hanoverton. Clerk is Robert Myers who is starting the second year of a two-year term.

In other business, the board approved the purchase of darkening shades for the visual education department, and for two rooms in the high school and one room in the elementary school. Cost of the shades is $520.40 of which $260.20 is to be paid by the federal government.

The board also approved the purchase of additional chalkboards and equipment for the physics, chemistry, biology and mathematics departments at a cost of $795.15. The federal government will pay $397.58 of the total cost.

Also on the agenda was the approval of an appropriation ordinance for the coming year.

The board voted to hold its regular meetings on the first Monday of the month.

Auto Companies Are Exception

Featherbedding Practices Prevalent Among Industries

Editor's Note—How widespread is featherbedding on the U. S. work scene? This second of three articles develops the picture.

By ROGER GREENE

Associated Press Staff Writer
In New York's Grand Central station, a New Haven-bound train sat on the track for 23 minutes while passengers fumed and the engineer waited for a yard man to clean the locomotive's dirty windshield.

Chided for delaying the train's departure, the engineer explained, "A couple of days ago I cleaned a dirty windshield myself, but I won't do it again. It's not my job. The maintenance foreman shouldn't have put the engine on the line in the first place with a dirt-fogged shield like that."

The nation's railroads, pressed by stiff competition from autos, trucks and airlines, say this "not-my-job" attitude is a key factor in forces that are crippling railroad efficiency and saddling the industry with ruinous costs. They call it "featherbedding."

The unions reply, in effect: "Supposing you had just finished a hard day's work at a desk job and the boss told you to mop up the office because the charwoman hadn't showed up. Would you do it?"

The railroads and other industries have always trod gingerly around the explosive issue of jurisdictional work rules. As a result, a fantastic crazyquilt of regulations has grown up across the years.

Industry spokesmen say many of the work rules are so old that nobody remembers how they originated. Down the years, the rules have been interpreted and reinterpreted countless times by arbiters and umpires. Today, they fill volumes.

But the unions say the rules developed as labor's answer to a long history of management abuses, such as the speedup.

"These featherbedding charges make me boil," says Guy L. Brown, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

"Railway employees could point to case after case where workers have been abused beyond the limits of human endurance. That's why we have the rules."

The railroads are by no means alone in their charges of featherbedding practices, which they claim are bleeding off the savings expected from expensive new automatic equipment.

In a sense, it might even be said that the universal coffee break is featherbedding, because it involves getting paid for time not worked.

In the building industry, carpenters sometimes refuse to handle prefabricated panels, and still cling to the old handsaw when a power saw would do the work five times faster.

Painters demand double wages for using a spray gun; in some cities, house painters refuse to use a brush wider than four inches.

Similarly, plumbers often refuse to use prethreaded pipe. When it comes already threaded from the factory, they cut off the threaded end and rethread the pipe by hand.

In the printing industry, union rules say all local advertising arriving at a newspaper plant in the form of plates or ready-to-use mats must be reset by hand, proofread and corrected. The "bogus" or "dead horse" type, unused, is then dumped into the helibox and melted down.

A steamship company says it needs only 10 men to operate a baggage conveyor, but the union requires it to hire twice that number. Some of the extra hands take turns pressing a button.

In the theater, four standby musicians get $70 a performance for listening while two pianists play the accompaniment in a Broadway revue. A one-man show, like Victor Borge's solo performance, requires at least four stagehands, by union rules, although the theater says one stagehand could do all the work.

The steel industry, in the recent long-drawn strike, aired charges of "loafing, featherbedding and unjustifiable idle time," but centered its fire chiefly on a demand for greater flexibility in changing work practices.

Company and union officials are both reluctant to comment on the mystery of how the auto industry has managed to escape featherbedding controversies which have plagued other fields.

Privately, an industry spokesman said the answer is that the auto companies have never allowed featherbedding practices to get started.

Hitler's Ideas Still Alive

Anti-Jewish Incidents Show

Bonn Democracy's Weakness

BONN, Germany (AP) — The current wave of anti-Semitic incidents points up the shakiness of democracy in West Germany.

Most of the men arrested in Germany so far in connection with the painting of swastikas and anti-Jewish slogans in public places are under 26, too young to have been Nazis in the Hitler era.

Yet these youths mouth Nazi slogans and heap vitriol on Jews.

It is all too clear that Hitler's ideas are still alive in Germany. Hatred still exists, waiting to be used by demagogues.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—There is no lack of applicants for Ohio's delegation to the Democratic national convention, Gov. Michael V. DiSalle indicated Tuesday.

He said more than enough had applied for the 146 delegate and alternate seats in the 64-vote delegation. DiSalle added that each member probably will have to spend at least $1,000 in expenses at the Los Angeles convention.

Some delegates will have only half-votes to assure a large group, DiSalle said.

U. S. Sen. Stephen M. Young has agreed to be a candidate for delegate, DiSalle said, but Sen. Frank J. Lausche, a former governor, was non-committal.

Former U. S. Sen. Thomas A. Burke of Cleveland, chairman of the 1956 Ohio delegation, has top priority in the delegate list, the governor commented. Delegate candidates will be selected in congressional districts, subject to approval by the Democratic state organization.

William L. Coleman, Democratic state chairman, said state headquarters will pick at-large delegate candidates to stand for election statewide in the May 3 primary.

Other prospective delegates named included Cleveland mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze, U. S. Rep. Wayne L. Hays of Flushing in eastern Ohio's 18th District, and some state officials.

DiSalle said there would be only one DiSalle-for-favorite son slate but added that there was nothing to prevent other than state organization endorsed candidates running for delegate.

Cuyahoga County Democratic chairman Ray T. Miller has not asked to become a delegate candidate, the governor said. DiSalle declined comment until he hears from Miller, whose organization made an endorsement of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts for the presidential nomination long before Tuesday's pledge by DiSalle to back Kennedy.

DiSalle said it will be up to Kennedy to designate a vice presidential candidate who will run on his ticket. The governor added that no selection had been made for the second presidential choice of his favorite son slate Ohio law requires delegate candidates to name their first and second choices for president and obtain their written consent.

The governor said other Democratic presidential candidates could seek Ohio delegates but his pledge to Kennedy was seen by backers as a move to discourage such attempts.

Belmont County Man Seeks Auditor's Post

ST. CLAIRSVILLE Ohio (AP) — Belmont County Auditor W. T. (Tom) McCort hopes to be the next state auditor, thus continuing a Democratic party "tradition."

McCort, 53, father of 13 children, said Tuesday he wants to follow the tradition that Ohio Democratic state auditors are the fathers of large families. He cited both A. Vic Donahey and Joseph T. Ferguson, two Democrats who last held the job, as men with large families.

McCort, who has held the county post since 1947, is taking his first plunge into statewide politics. He served as president of the Ohio Records' Assn. and secretary of the Ohio Auditors' Assn. and is a member on the legislative committee of the Auditor's Assn.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

The nine justices of the Supreme Court had message to deliver recently. They joined in it unananimously. Mr. Justice Hugo Black was delighted to run the errand for his colleagues, for this was an unprecedented move.

They are sending word to the Steelworkers' national counsel, Arthur Goldberg, that never in their combined years on the highest court of the land had they heard so "masterful" a presentation of a case as labor lawyer Goldberg had delivered in behalf of the strikers.

It was further masterful action, developed with the sturdy leader Dave McDonald, who now easily takes a high place among the giant leaders of labor, that forced a quick settlement of the steel war.

Goldberg and McDonald began their final strategic move when the government announced the other week that the cost-of-living had gone up four cents an hour.

THEY DECIDED immediately to ask the federal court — which actually was "ruling" the steel industry under the Taft-Hartley injunction — to order the companies to pay all their mill employees that additional four cent an hour. That's the way it would have been under the old contract.

According to the industry's own figures, this would have cost it 120 million dollars a year. It was generally believed that Judge Herbert Sog of Pittsburgh would have directed the companies to start making the increased wage payments.

As Goldberg and McDonald figured it, the industry would have lost all those millions without getting anything in return. A concession from the union. For the industry that would be bad bargaining.

The deadline for court action was 10 a.m., Monday, Jan. 4. At exactly 1:45 a.m. Arthur Goldberg shook hands with top steel negotiator Conrad Cooper, vice president of U.S. Steel Corp. The strike was over. The companies canceled.

Actually these sessions had been going on for well over two weeks when President Eisenhower told Vice President Nixon to get a settlement before Congress opened and complicated life for everybody.

First Nixon asked Cooper to represent the industry. He stood pat. So Nixon ordered him bypassed and they called in Roger Blough, U.S. Steel's chairman of the board, and the technicians. Cooper held out to the end against a settlement.

Nixon laid it on the line as he always does when he has orders from his chief, the President of the U.S.

this: Mr. Eisenhower was not going to permit a new national stoppage. Neither would Congress. Fact is that the real powers on the "Hill," the men who have been there for a combined total of well over 200 years, did not intend to wait for the White House to ask Congress to move.

Those men, such as Rep. Howard Smith of Virginia, head of the omniscient House Rules Committee; Sen. John McClellan; Speaker Sam Rayburn; Rep. Graham Barden, head of the House Labor Committee and Sen. Lyndon Johnson, were restless.

They were ready to merge their power bloc to pass a preventive strike law long before the new strike deadline on Jan. 26.

FURTHERMORE, the President was set to go up the "Hill" about Jan. 20 if there were signs of a new strike. No one knew just what the specifics would have been. There was no formula. But Mr. Eisenhower positively was set to send the men back to work immediately.

He was ready to guarantee the men retroactive pay. He would then say to both sides, all right we have production, now you work things out. The nation would have had steel.

Then it would have been too late. There would have been a new law on the books which both sides would have disliked. It would have been late enough if they had waited until past the Jan. 6 opening of Congress. Several congressional probes would have been opened.

Bitterness would have pulled the two sides further apart as senators put McDonald, Cooper, Goldberg and Blough on the stand. But that deadline was beaten by 48 hours.

Like any great drama, there were lesser themes within the major crisis. But the variations don't matter. The play's the thing and both sides wanted to get the curtain down in a hurry. They did. The union wrote most of the final lines.

Forestry Exposition Plans Completed

LISBON — Final plans were developed for the county forestry exposition when eight members of the Columbiana County Forestry Committee met Monday in the county extension office, Don Myers, county extension agent in agriculture, reports.

The exposition will be held Jan. 30, from 1 to 4 p.m. at United Local School, north of Hanoverton on Rt. 9.

Ten education exhibits, forest and woodland equipment, forest products, forest tree nurseries and saw mill operations will be exhibited.

Movies on forestry will be shown during the period.

THIS OLD HOUSE IS NEW — Under construction in Charlottesville, Pa., is a replica of the house called Shadwell where Thomas Jefferson was born. The site is not far from Monticello, Jefferson's famous home. Built in the 1730s, the original Shadwell burned down in 1766.

Man Bait

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—This is Leap Year, and millions of coy and militant maidens are searching for a successful way to win a husband.

Lady, do you really aspire to lead a man to the altar in 1960? To do it you don't need to pour him a voodoo love potion or resort to strange feminine wiles.

All you need to land a guy—some guy anyway—is to learn four words. These are the "wo."

That is the greatest secret of successful courtship which, as has been wisely pointed out, consists of a man chasing a woman until she catches him.

But hundreds of thousands of marriage-hungry girls will miss the mark. No wedding bells will ring for them. And why? Because they will use the wrong technique. They will scare the poor fish away.

Most will do it by making one of two errors; either they will put themselves too much on a pedestal or they will become too overbearing and possessive.

The too-coy girl is the china-doll type. From birth her mommy and daddy have treated her as something special and precious. She grows up believing this herself—all girls do to a considerable extent—and instead of becoming a real flesh-and-blood woman she winds up kind of fragile Dresden figurine.

No ordinary man is quite good enough for her. She thinks of herself as a kind of Cinderella.

There aren't enough ready-made princesses, or romantic young millionaires, to go around. And those that are around aren't looking for a spoiled, eternally adolescent girl for a wife. At 40, this kind of dame is still wistfully pounding a typewriter, goes home at night to a cat for company and is bitterly convinced all men are bums.

The second type—the dominant girl—frightens potential husbands away by turning on her feminine power too soon. She starts bossing her beau right away. She brags she can twist her daddy around her little finger, and makes cute remarks such as, "You men—you never grow up. You're such little boys. You all have to be mothered."

The Leap Year lass who will wind up middle-aiding it will, on the other hand, be the one who can make her guy feel really important in himself—and not just a male accessory to her ego.

VANDALS STRIKE AGAIN

CLEVELAND (AP)—The latest in a series of vandalisms left the white frame house of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Trefz spattered with red paint Tuesday night. Police Capt. Reinhold Apelt blamed the series of incidents, dating back to June, on trouble with neighbors. In other incidents, raw eggs and rocks were thrown at the house.

The Doctor Says

By HAROLD THOMAS HYMAN, M. D.

Women Accept Modern Concepts

In two previous columns, I wrote of the uterine nest and its purification that occurred every 28 days, corresponding to the cycles of the moon. Now I would like to complete that discussion, at least for the time being.

Between the little girl's first menstrual cycle or menarche and the woman's last period or menopause, there occur some 400 bleedings with normal interruptions only during, and for a few months after, a pregnancy.

What happens at each of these periods is not an "illness," nor a "curse," nor a time of "uncleanliness" but a preparation for the welcome arrival of the product of conception after ripening of the next egg.

Just as the diligent housewife thoroughly cleans, freshens, paints and papers her guest room even when the expected guest has failed to arrive, so the uterine nest peels off its unused lining and disposes of it, together with attached blood and blood clot, when impregnation has failed to take place. Then, all shiny and bright, she waits again for the blessed event.

THESE MODERN concepts of uterine and menstrual functions have been graciously accepted by most of the courageous women of the Twentieth Century who fought for the emancipation of their sex as symbolized by passage of the constitutional amendment giving the female citizen the right to vote.

Almost gone are the days when frightened little girls panicked at sight of their first menstrual bleeding, when coddled women remained in bed for the first few days of their period, and when mature women associated the natural menopause with insanity, arthritis, high blood pressure, cancer, mental deterioration, loss of attractiveness, and any other disturbance that happened to occur at this time.

IN OUR ENLIGHTENED age, the little girl welcomes her first period as an emblem of maturity.

Active women refuse to be hampered by their menstrual periods.

Professional and career women, as well as wage earners, continue at their tasks, chorus girls sing and dance, golf and tennis enthusiasts permit no interruption in their play. And, if they feel a bit out of sorts or headachy or they suffer a certain amount of abdominal cramping, they take an aspirin, rest a few minutes and then carry on.

Coming to the menopause, the informed woman tries to ignore fleeting discomforts, such as flushing, sweating, chilliness, headache and palpitation. Assured by her doctor that these manifestations will pass, she rarely requires any other form of treatment.

However, with the persistence of complaints that interfere with efficiency or the comforts of life, drug treatment may be required.

WE MENFOLK have every reason to feel proud of the manner in which our mothers, wives and daughters refuse to exploit what used to be regarded as "female weaknesses."

The emancipated woman who has gained freedom, equality and the ballot asks for no unusual considerations for the minor discomforts imposed on her by the normal functioning of her special organs.

Changes At City Hall

Mayor Dean Cranmer surprised political second guessers who were expecting new faces when he chose two former aides for the appointive positions of safety and service directors yesterday.

The mayor again named Dr. Richard J. McConnor to the safety post and James E. Feiler as service director, explaining he felt the two had done excellent jobs before and that they were willing to serve again.

Both are experienced in their respective field and there seems no reason to doubt they can execute their assignments. McConnor, a busy doctor who also is the high school team physician, is to be commended for his willingness to hold public office, although it is only parttime. Feiler's post is a fulltime job and he knows it will require his constant attention.

A word of commendation should go to former mayor Harold Smith's appointees. Service Director Harry Vincent and Safety Director Joseph Fester, who will retire Jan. 15.

Appointive changes at City Hall occur every time there's a change of administrations and the public anticipates this political inter-play. Missing from City Council last night when the legislators held their first meeting of the new year were President of Council Curtis Vaughan and First Ward Councilman Rudy Linder, two veterans who will be missed. The new Council president, Michael Schuller, served three prior terms in Council and will have no difficulty with councilmanic proceedings.

We hope that the city officials' efforts in the next two years will be made in behalf of a progressive community.

Time to Get Down to Business

The big "if" that overshadowed the New Year predictions of a booming 1960 has been removed with the settlement of the eight-month-old steel dispute.

The companies can proceed with the job of producing steel and workers can stay on the job without the threat of another bitter stoppage hanging over their heads. The rest of the economy can have a sigh of relief and get on with its business, too. And the politicians can relax with the thought that they won't have to come to grips with so critical a situation in a big election year.

A COUPLE of small "ifs" remain, but they are important.

One is whether the agreement will necessitate an increase in the price of steel. We hope not, even though predictions sprang up almost immediately after the announcement of the settlement that it will.

One of the stakes in the long dispute was inflation. In the final agreement, as in the resolution of any deadlocked controversy, both sides had to compromise, giving up some things they were reluctant to yield.

The benefits of the timely settlement of the dispute will be undercut in the long run if the companies find it necessary to increase their prices. That will mean the problem of inflation in terms of the wage-price spiral will still have to be met at some future time. It is far more desirable that it be met now.

ANOTHER "IF" is whether the federal government the executive or Congress or both—will be able to work out some sort of machinery for preventing a recurrence of the unprecedented battle which had widespread crippling effects on the whole national economy.

This, too, is a long-range problem that cries for solution before another critical situation arises.

Castro on His Way to the Wall

It has been a year since the collapse of Cuba's Batista government, which once represented as much hope as Fidel Castro's 26th of July Movement represented when it took over the Cuban government last Jan. 2.

Now, as then, Americans cannot be sure what is going on inside Cuba. Now, as then, Americans tend to believe what they want to believe. But a year of revolutionary government under Castro has left an indelible impression in the news.

Whatever Castro set out to do that caused him to pick up devoted followers among educated Cuban moderates has not been able to satisfy these people as events moved along. There is no moderation in the Castro revolution now. The moderates are disappearing.

Whether the Communists who have identified themselves with Castro are his guiding force or merely a crowd of conspicuous passengers, they have put the curse of radicalism and violence on his regime.

The fact the young Cuban premier does not seem to have been one of them from the outset and denies he is one of them now only points up the urgency of Cuba's problem. It does not matter greatly now whether Fidel Castro is a Communist or a prisoner of the Communists, Cuba has fallen prey to the violence that Communism begets, and Castro can do nothing about it.

The chant of the Cuban mobs—"The Wall, the Wall, the Wall"—is an omen of evil for Cuba, for Castro and for all the people who dream of replacing bad government with good government in countries where force alone could turn the trick.

Castro, himself, in on his way to the wall. The executioners who are destroying his friends as well as his enemies will get around to him eventually. That is the history of revolutions that run away from moderates and turn into wild horses for the Valkyries of terror and mob violence.

The Valkyries designate the victims of terror with fine impartiality once death becomes the order of the era, as it has in Cuba one year from the date when a corrupt and death-dealing government was put to rout.

miss the mood of adventure, excitement and combat now possible in all supermarkets.

The danger is that shopping may be made too easy and dull, with even the stirring battles in checkout line eliminated. To some housewives these fights have long been a most popular feature of the food hunt.

We know one smart supermarket manager who gets a heavy patronage by awarding battle medals and wound stripes to women whose cry is "An eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth and a fight for every package of frozen fish." He has also introduced a cooling-off area for housewives who get too emotional over delays at checkout counter.

MOVIE FANS are still trying to understand vote switches by the New York film critics for the best actor and picture of the year.

On the first ballot Charlton Heston led James Stewart but the next one showed Paul Muni with Stewart second. Jimmy won in the stretch 10 to 5. (Heston must have been crowded off the course on the turns.)

"Anatomy of a Murder" was close up to "Ben-Hur," although the pictures are as far apart as poles. The former has a religious background, while "Anatomy" featured a candid story of rape and murder.

"Ben-Hur" was written by a Civil War general. The story made Gen. Wallace a bigger winner than Grant. His book is perhaps better known than Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. (If Lew Wallace had been given chariots he might have reached Appomattox ahead of the Union commander-in-chief.

U.S. Economy Knock-Down Kit

American Myth

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—It was a spring day, last March 25, when President Eisenhower talked to a news conference about the upcoming steel negotiations in terms of misplaced optimism.

He expressed hope the industry and the union would show statesmanship, consider the public, and reach a noninflationary settlement.

He said it was his administration's policy not to get into collective bargaining, at least with recommendations for a settlement, although his statement about a noninflationary agreement could by itself be considered a form of interference.

Instead of statesmanship, the industry and union haggled for months; there was a record 116-day strike which affected the national economy and therefore the public; and the administration got up to its neck in the dispute, including a recommendation.

The recommendation for the settlement, which was reached came from Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell and Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who heads the President's special anti-inflationary Cabinet Committee.

Just what the settlement means to the public is already a matter of dispute. It exceeded the bounds of what the industry said would be noninflationary.

Roger Blough, board chairman of the U.S. Steel Corp. said it will cost the industry more than one billion dollars but that U.S. Steel plans no immediate price increase. Yet, the magazine Steel said the inevitable result of the settlement will be a boost in steel prices.

As usual, when a situation like the steel dispute comes to an end—negotiations started last May 5—there is a public wondering: Why couldn't the union and industry have reached this kind of agreement before there was any strike at all?

Although the details were not immediately public, the industry reportedly yielded more than it had intended.

The strike, which cost six billion dollars in wages and production, was finally stopped by court injunction, obtained by the government Nov. 7.

Under the law the union could strike again after the 80-day injunction ended, or on Jan. 26.

If this had happened, Congress almost certainly would have stepped in with special legislation either to halt the strike or perhaps to go further and compel a settlement, say through compulsory arbitration.

Blough conceded the industry was aware of this likelihood and didn't like the prospect of such decisive government intervention into what has been called this country's system of free, collective bargaining.

Now, of course, there will be no reason for special action by Congress. So, the American myth of completely free bargaining is allowed to live a little longer—until some future, giant strike does bring congressional action.

Unions and managements know that in a truly essential industry where a strike would badly damage the national welfare—such as in steel or transportation—the government would not stand idle. It would step in and, if necessary, dictate terms.

This shadow of the government hovers over all collective bargaining in essential industries and therefore ultimately is a compelling force for a settlement short of interference.

This has been true now for years, because no government could hope to survive if it stood idly by in a situation that was wrecking the nation. So unions and industry have the luxury of haggling but only up to a point.

Presidential Stature

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Process of Naming Executive Inefficient as Ever

The office of president of the United States is perhaps more important today than it ever has been in the history of the country. Yet the process of selecting a new president is as inefficient as it always has been and the American people by the present system could be content in some campaigns in the future, as in the past, with a choice between two mediocrities — men without any experience in federal government affairs at all.

This year is somewhat of an exception. At least five of the six able men being prominently mentioned or the presidential nomination in both parties have been identified with the legislative operations of Congress.

The Republicans have Vice President Nixon, who has served as a representative for two terms and as a senator, while the Democrats have Senators Kennedy, Humphrey, Johnson and Symington. Only Adlai Stevenson, a former governor of Illinois, has not served in Congress.

Dealing with Congress is the most important of the domestic responsibilities confronting a president, yet it is to be noted that in the last 60 years nobody has been nominated for the presidency who was the leader of either party in the House or the Senate.

Time Sen. Lyndon Johnson, the Democratic leader of the Senate, is the only man being mentioned for the presidential nomination on the Democratic side who has had leadership experience.

tions and especially how to deal with members of Congress. Logically, as is the case in parliamentary governments in Canada, Great Britain and other countries, the man who becomes the highest elected officer must already have won his spurs in the legislative branch.

WHAT KIND OF MAN should be president of the United States and what experience should he have had to qualify for the highest office in the land?

Presumably he should be familiar with the operations of the federal government. While he may learn much from a state office, it is not the same as federal experience.

Presumably, also, a would-be candidate ought to know something about federal administration but it rarely happens that a president comes to the White House with any executive training in the cabinet or in the making of executive policies.

Presumably, too, a candidate should be able to deal with Congress. The Constitution gives the president a part in making laws and, if he has the benefit of a party majority in Congress, he becomes the leader of his party in both houses.

What test shall be applied to the various candidates?

Shall they be considered qualified because they have taken trips abroad and visited with foreign dignitaries?

Have they made any outstanding speeches that give an indication of how they would deal with foreign policy?

What training have they had in the many intricate matters of legislative policy and particularly in leading their own party on national or international issues?

THE DELEGATES who participate in the national conventions don't weigh these matters carefully. They are guided by what they think is the vote-getting capacity of a prominent man.

He may be a crooner or a television idol or he may be a man with a contagious smile and inexhaustible strength as a hand-shaker. If he looks like a man who can attract votes, he usually gets delegate strength. What a clumsy way to pick president!

Finally when two names are before the voter and he doesn't like either one, he has only the doubt on election day.

The get-out-the-vote movement in each election campaign has a commendable purpose but lots of times the people who stay at home are voting, too. They are, in effect, exercising their vote of protest against both nominees or they acquiesce because they feel it doesn't matter who is elected.

Cheaper Trips Abroad

By WARD CANNEL

Look for minimum air fares between the U.S. and Europe to drop sharply—at least 50 per cent—within the next 18 months.

This is the inside, unofficial, but highly authoritative word from this hub of U.S. to Europe-Africa-Middle East air travel. And while it is said sadly ("It is unpleasant to see profits dwindle") it is also said with a continental shrug of the shoulders ("It is better than no business at all").

And if it comes to pass as predicted, your round trip fare to let's say Rome will cost you about $250—compared to today's $1,000 first-class fare or $600 tourist.

The reasons are best spelled out in the words of Andrea Polchi-Vici, a ranking commercial officer with Alitalia. But his story is the story of most of the world's lines. It looks like this: Introduction of jet passenger craft (6½ hours New York to Rome) has forced every competitor to order a fleet of his own. Cost: $6 million per plane. Meanwhile, supersonic planes are only five years away. Half the time, but twice the cost—and long before the jets were amortized.

This means whole fleets of DC-7Cs in perfect order liberated and idle. Lufthansa, for example, will be caught with her brand-new piston engines three months old—and obsolescent.

"And in the meantime," Polchi-Vici said, "we have studies of show that close to 70 per cent of the potential flying market in the U.S. has never been in a plane. We have to tap that market."

IT ALL ADDS UP to a glorious buyer's market in travel, despite the present International Air Transport Association regulations which set ticket prices, thus limiting competition to menu and wine list.

For the answer to everything—liberated piston engines, untapped market, etc.—lies in the paradoxical label: scheduled charter flights.

Under present civil air regulations, anybody can charter a plane from a commercial airline for a per seat cost of about $300 round trip New York to Rome. But there are two big restrictions:

The charter must go to an organization which has a common aim and has been in operation at least two years.

But this sedentary, independent voter could, like other U.S. citizens in the know, pay a small fee and bet a back-dated membership in a number of Democratic, Republican or ski clubs—entitling him to buy a seat on the next charter flight.

"WE OBEY THE LETTER of the law," Polchi-Vici said. "But we cannot check on the membership of each person who flies on our charters. If the organization is bona fide, that's good enough for us."

It would be better, of course, if no organization were required, or if a private citizen or tourist agent or the airline itself could advertise charter flights on a competitive basis.

"We are not going to push for this," Polchi-Vici said. "It defies present regulations and robs us of first-class fares. But it seems to be coming closer to reality every day."

One pressure in this direction comes from many travel agents who tell me: "Initiate a passenger on a charter flight and he'll become a first-class ticket holder by himself."

Another pressure is the potential traveler himself, beckoned from every direction to roam and wait "only until the price comes down."

And despite regulations, forms, inspectors and agreements, competition itself is lending its weight. Currently close to reality, for example, is Air Union, a merger of Air France, Sabena, Alitalia and Lufthansa (with KLM and the Japanese showing interest).

"It would be a tremendous saving on a personnel, ticket offices, equipment and overlapping schedules," Polchi-Vici said. "How could any of your giant American companies argue against that? Aren't the Americans always suggesting more federation in Europe?"

Now for the split-level supermarket! A model has been exhibited showing a half-dozen levels, all reached by circular escalator, with shopping done by push-button. The building looks like a combination Frank Lloyd Wright art museum, a roller coaster, a chute-the-shutes, a giant eggbeater and a modern multiple-level garage.

Shoppers are carried past groceries, floor by floor, to the top where they make selections by button.

The load is automatically carried to checkout booth and — presto! — delivered to auto area for pickup. This gives grocery-hunting housewife everything but music and floor show with the baloney, frankfurters and canned songs.

It does away with wire wagons. But will shoppers take this lying down? The wagon gives the shopper fortitude and self-confidence as they gather at Armageddon and battle for the pork chops. It is their top weapon for defense and offense.

They depend on it for ground gaining.

The little woman thinks it establishes her economic status. Loaded up, it places her in the upper brackets. Half full it is still of importance. Only when it transports one jar of pickles and a half-dozen buns does it embarrass her. Board to Report Delinquent Candidates

The County Election Board has received instructions from Secretary of State Ted W. Brown to report the names and addresses of all candidates in 1958 and 1959 who failed to report campaign receipts and expenditures in the 45-day period after the balloting, as required by law, Frank R. O'Hanlon, the clerk of the board, said today at East Liverpool.

Brown's office evidently intends to make the names a matter of record, O'Hanlon said. Under the stringent new law, a candidate who fails to report on his campaign funds is barred automatically from running for public office again for five years.

Tumor Kills Wife Of Sen. Thurmond

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Jean Crouch Thurmond, 33, wife of Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-SC) died today.

She underwent surgery last September for removal of a brain tumor after partial paralysis of her left side. A second brain operation was performed Tuesday at the clinical center of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md., near here.

Doctors said she was afflicted with a rapidly progressing malignant brain tumor.

The Thurmonds were married Nov. 7, 1947, while he was governor of South Carolina. She had been his secretary. He was 44 at the time and she was 21.

Sheriff's Department Lists December Report

LISBON — Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan reports a total of 40 prisoners received at the county jail during December, in addition to the 33 already confined as of Dec. 1.

Forty prisoners were released during the month, five were conveyed to state institutions and six mental patients were taken to state hospitals.

A total of 3,261 meals was served at the jail during December. Total cost was $1,117.66, making the average daily cost per prisoner $1.03.

Sheriff Van Fossan reported 212 papers were served, and 5,502 radio transmissions were handled, along with 1,295 phone calls at the jail. Fees totaling $499.75 were collected and there were 243 visitors at the jail during December.

E. Palestine Arrests In '59 Total 731

EAST PALESTINE — Police made 731 arrests in 1959, compared with 389 the previous year, Chief Carl R. Lotze reported today.

There were 234 arrests for city law infractions; 91 state patrol charges; and 404 parking violations.

The department probed 67 traffic accidents, three more than in 1958. A total of 1,619 25-cent courtesy cards were issued for parking meter violations.

Parking meter yield last year amounted to $6,278, the chief said, compared with $5,788 in 1958. The high month for meter income last year was October when $654 was collected. The low month was January, with $389.

The police dispatcher handled 6,172 radio and telephone messages, about a hundred fewer than the previous year.

DOG LICENSE SALE LAGS

LISBON — Only 1,600 dog licenses have been sold for 1960 so far, according to Russell Reichenbach, dog warden.

Beekeepers Group To Plan Meeting

LISBON—The Columbiana County Beekeepers Executive Committee will meet Thursday at 8 p.m. in the county extension office in Lisbon to develop plans for the State Beekeepers Association meeting, according to Don Myers, county farm agent.

The state meeting is scheduled for Columbiana County July 30 and Aug. 1. Beekeepers from Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia will attend.

Richard Howenstone of Alliance RD 5, chairman of the county group, will preside.

Macmillan Greeted By 2,000 Ghanians

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan arrived at the brilliantly decorated Accra airport today on the first leg of his 15,000-mile fact-finding tour through Britain's restive colonies and Commonwealth members in Africa.

Macmillan was greeted by Ghana's Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah, who led his country to freedom nearly three years ago after being imprisoned by the British.

Nkrumah noted that Macmillan is the first British prime minister to visit south of the Sahara while in office. He said he hopes the visit will strengthen good will, not only for Ghana and the United Kingdom, but for Africa and the world.

Macmillan in reply said he had come "to see and learn."

About 2,000 Ghanians were at the airport, some in brightly colored native robes.

2 Of 3 Ohio Jail Escapees Nabbed

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP)—Two of three prisoners who escaped from the Clinton County Jail here were recaptured today in Portsmouth after only a few hours of freedom.

Sheriff's deputies who returned the two here said they were arrested about 2:50 a.m. by Portsmouth city patrolmen. The officers became suspicious when the pair entered a restaurant from the cold night air without coats.

They are Clarence D. Lute, 34, of Leesburg, held for Highland County officials in connection with a safe cracking, and Linzey Wright, 19, of Hillsboro, awaiting grand jury action in a breaking and entering case.

Officers said the pair did not put up a fight. There was no immediate explanation of how they traveled from Wilmington to Portsmouth.

Deputies said the trio apparently crawled through a scuttle hole above the cell block Tuesday night and fled across the jail's roof.

Still at large is Henry Smith, 18, of Clermont County, awaiting action in a post office robbery at nearby Cuba. Deputies said the other two indicated he may have headed north.

tations and has given Vice President Richard M. Nixon main credit for ending the eight-month contract deadlock.

Both the executive board and the larger wage policy committee of the union voted unanimous approval of the new agreement.

Some details of the agreement remained to be worked out, such as improvements in supplemental unemployment benefits.

It became apparent, with announcement of details of the new steel agreement, that one man more than any other had shaped the terms. He is Edgar F. Kaiser of Kaiser Steel, who broke the solid front of the steel companies in October to reach the first agreement with the union.

The contract with the 11 top companies closely parallels the Kaiser contract, although with some differences.

Economically, the union won its basic demands. A year ago the union started its drive with newspaper advertisements implying it wanted a billion-dollar settlement.

County Constables To Meet Tuesday

LISBON — Columbiana County Constables Assn. will meet Tuesday evening at 7:30 in the mayor's office in Hanoverton. President Roy Painter announces.

Movies of duties performed by county constables will be shown. Painter will serve lunch to the group.

and payroll $36,000; power and heat $6,100; replacement fund $6,000, and PERS $3,850.

Adoption of the ordinances, without passage of the three month general fund appropriation ordinance, was made possible because of the self-sustaining nature of the Water and Sewage Departments.

Expenses are paid out of periodic payment of bills by utility users.

To Act on General Fund

The regular three-month appropriation for the general fund is to be set up by the Finance Committee this Thursday. Action on the measure, according to Councilman Fred Koenreich, will be taken at a special Council meeting scheduled for next Tuesday.

The only other ordinance approved by Council last night was an authorization to the Utilities Commission to advertise for bids and enter into contracts for various materials.

The measure was passed unanimously as an emergency.

The materials include cast iron pipe, fittings, valves, chemicals, fuel oil and other materials necessary for use by the Water and Sewage Departments during 1960.

Memorial Park Ready For Skaters Tonight

The ice skating rink and warming shelter at Memorial Park will be open this evening.

Rusty Tomlinson, superintendent of parks and recreation, reports the ice is rough but safe. The roughness resulted from people breaking up the ice before it was hard, Tomlinson said.

Persons driving to the pond are requested to use the E. School St. entrance and to park in the area east of the pond.

Truck Hits Train At Columbiana

A semi-trailer truck loaded with coal collided with a slowmoving Youngstown and Southern Railroad freight train today at 10:05 a.m. at the E. Park Ave. crossing in Columbiana.

Mike Derosse, 32, of Duquesne, Pa., driver of the truck, was brought to Salem City Hospital for observation.

The west-bound truck hit the first car behind the switch engine of the north-bound train. The gondola car, which was loaded with bulk cement, was not derailed. The train was traveling at about five miles per hour when the accident occurred.

The cab of the truck, which was owned by Long's Coal and Hauling Co. of Duquesne, was crumpled.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: The people next door have a 9-year-old who is a little mischief maker. He's been changing our milk card for the last two weeks. This morning I was left five quarts of milk, three pounds of butter, four dozen eggs and two cartons of yogurt.

He's a sweet little fellow but full of the dickens. We are certain he's the guilty one but don't want to accuse him without proof. My husband says we must catch him in the act or we can do nothing. What is your advice?—OVERSTOCKED.

Dear Overstocked: Until you seize the culprit red-handed, ask the milkman to ignore the card and work out with him a secret hiding place for the official order.

Problem Mother

Dear Ann: You are going to decide this. My husband has agreed. My mother never gave me a second look when I was a child. She left me with a housekeeper while she went to work to buy wall-to-wall carpeting, a grand piano and a fur coat. Dad said she didn't have to work but she insisted she was born to have "nice things" and was determined to have them.

My childhood was a nightmare. All I can remember is the housekeeper telling me to "quit crying or go in the bathroom."

Dad passed away last year. I'm married and have two sweet children. Mom is tired of working. She wants to quit her job and move in with us so I can go to work and buy all those nice extras.

She says she'll keep house for me and take care of the kids. Her words are, "I was never able to enjoy my own child. Now I want to enjoy my grandbabies."

"I don't want to go to work. 'Nice things' aren't that important. And having my mother in my my home isn't my idea of a way to live."

My husband thinks two incomes would be great. He's for the idea. What is your opinion?—D.T.M.

Dear D.T.M.: If you want to stay home STAY HOME. And let your mother stay home, too—in HERS, that is. Clearly, you two would not fare well under one roof.

Apparently you've managed on your husband's income up to now. There are worse things in life than not having luxuries. If you let Mom move in and take over your home you'll find out what some of them are.

Daughter Is Boss

Dear Ann: Our 16-year-old daughter is driving us berserk. She just skids by in her studies, yet every evening her steady boy friend shows up here before we leave the supper table and stays as late as he feels like it.

They sit in the living room and turn the TV on to what they want to watch and then we get the fish eye because they think we are hanging around policing them.

The boy bums cigarettes off me and to tell you the truth I can't stand the kid. He quit school last year and I think he's trying to get Nellie to do the same thing. What can we do?—THE FOLKS.

Dear Folks: You wouldn't let your automobile run out of control, would you? Well, isn't your daughter just as valuable?

TELL her, don't ask her. Kids need controls and limits set for them. Put the shoe on the other foot, then put the foot down NOW.

Confidentially

To the hundreds of women who wrote to tell me I'm off my trolley: I repeat. There is no such thing as love at first sight. You gals who were knocked off your pins at first meeting and are now living happily ever after, please note. IT WASN'T LOVE that you experienced on the initial glimpse. It was a chemical reaction. The guy just happened to turn out to be as wonderful as you thought the first time you set eyes on him. (That isn't love but hooray for whatever it is.)

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to here in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

UP AND OVER — This giant snow machine might have trouble getting under a bridge but it makes practical use of winter's blanket, picking it up and putting it down again in usable form. The U.S. Army engineers are testing the machine in the frozen wastes of the Arctic. It compacts the gathered snow and re-deposits it into a hard, smooth surface—in this case a possible aircraft runway. The Department of Defense released this photograph of the machine in Washington.

INDICTED IN CHILD'S DEATH

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — A grand jury has indicted Mrs. Elizabeth Howe, 21, on a charge of second-degree manslaughter in the death Oct. 21 of her six-month-old son. The child died of a fractured skull and multiple bruises, the coroner ruled.

Mrs. Howe, wife of Warren Howe, 27, a Kent State University instructor, previously pleaded innocent in Municipal Court here. She has been confined to Lima State Hospital.

Youngstown East Scores Upset Victory Over Salem 42-41

Invaders Outplay, Outshoot Locals

By DICK BRAUTIGAM

Jim Snowden laid in a rebound shot as the final buzzer sounded to give Youngstown East a hard-earned 42-41 upset victory over the previously unbeaten Salem Quakers on Tuesday night in the Salem High gym.

The 6-4 star scored from under the hoop after a long set shot by East's Eddie McElroy rolled off the rim with only two seconds remaining. The screaming crowd drowned out the sound of the buzzer, but after a brief discussion with the time keeper, officials ruled that the basket was good.

The defeat broke an 18-game winning streak for the Quakers during regular season play over a two-year period. It was only the fourth loss for Salem in its last 53 games, including tournament competition.

For Youngstown East the victory was the sixth in eight starts. Salem's season record is 4-1.

MANY FACTORS contributed to the Salem defeat Tuesday night, but most important, the Quakers were outshot and outplayed by a Youngstown East quintet that wouldn't give up. At one point in the game the Bears trailed by as many as 12 points. As East's coach, Ed DiGregorio, put it, "We played ball tonight!"

The lead seasawed back and forth in the first quarter until the final half minute of play when Don Davidson hit on a jump shot from the side and Dave Hunter ripped the cords with a long one-hander to give Salem a 15-12 lead at the end of the period.

The Davidson-Hunter combination kept rolling in the second quarter, and with 2:33 remaining in the period Salem moved to its biggest lead in the game, 28-16. At this point East hit on three straight baskets to close the gap to six points, 28-22, at halftime.

EAST OUTSCORED the Quakers 8-7 in the third quarter, but still trailed 35-30 at the end of the period.

In the final quarter, Eric Theiss tallied from underneath to move Salem out in front 37-30. A long set shot by McElroy and two quick baskets by Snowden put the Bears one point off the pace, 37-36, with 6:35 remaining in the game.

At this point both teams started hanging on to the ball, running out the clock and trying to set up for one good shot. Hunter gave Salem a 39-36 lead on a driving layup at the 4:58 mark. Another long set shot by McElroy made it 39-38 in favor of Salem with just under four minutes to play.

Salem and then East lost the ball on bad passes. With 50 seconds remaining Bob Santor of East stole the ball from Davidson at midcourt, but his layup and three successive rebound shots by East went astray before Salem finally cleared the boards.

WITH JUST 23 seconds remaining Salem still held a 39-38 lead and possession of the ball. However, the clever McElroy stole the ball from Hunter and went in alone to put East on top for the first time since the opening quarter, 40-39.

East's lead was short-lived. McElroy fouled Hunter as the Quaker guard started to drive. Hunter calmly converted both points of a one-and-one foul to put the locals back on top 41-40 with 16 seconds remaining.

It took Snowden just one brief second to write the final chapter and he climaxed a sterling performance with an unhappy ending for the Quakers.

Even before his final basket, Snowden was the most valuable player on the floor. The all-around athlete was a one-man show in the rebounding department and wound up with 18 points for his night's work.

Loss First of Season for Locals

Youngstown East Jayvees Beat Salem In Rough Game

The Youngstown East Jayvees gave Salem High an early indication of the double disaster that was to befall them Tuesday on the local basketball court when they came from behind in the final quarter to upset the Quaker Reserve squad 46-42.

Unlike the Salem varsity, which went down to a 42-41 defeat, the Jayvees trailed during most of the game. East led 11-9 after one quarter and 22-20 at the half.

On the strength of some fine rebounding by sophomore Ted Thorne and junior Todd Couchie, and the scoring of Thorne, Duane McClaskey and Fred Harshman, Salem captured the lead in the third quarter 37-35.

Led by 6-1 Willie Wynn, East hit for four straight goals early in the fourth quarter to take a 43-37 lead. Salem failed to register in the period until with 2:54 remaining. Ron Janovec sank a bucket and was fouled in the act of shooting.

HIS SUCCESSFUL foul conver-

HUNTER KEPT up his share of the offensive load for Salem, dropping in eight goals and four of five foul attempts for 20 points. Hunter has been high point man for the Quakers in all five games this season.

Don Davidson, after another outstanding performance in the first half, cooled off considerably in the last two periods. Davidson scored all but two of his 12 points in the first half. The 6-4 1/2 junior picked up a goal in the opening minute of the third quarter but was shut out the rest of the game.

Although his shooting dropped off, Davidson continued to do yeoman work in the rebounding department against the rangy Bears. He led the team with 16 rebounds.

Salem's 50 per cent shooting average for four games took a nose dive. The Quakers hit on 15 of 49 shots for a 30.6 average. East made good on 19 of 57 shots from the field for a 33.4 average.

BOTH TEAMS shot 10 for 29 in the first half. In the second half, East hit 9 for 28 and Salem 5 for 25.

From the foul line, Salem was 11 for 19 and East 4 for 9. Only eight fouls were called against Salem and 13 against East.

East's zone defense gave the Quakers headaches. Salem scored only 13 points during the entire second half. It's 41 points for the game were the fewest a Salem High varsity team has scored in five years. Not since Salem beat Ravenna 38-22 in the 1954-55 season has a Quaker quintet been held under 42 points.

A big factor in East's victory was its ability to keep Jim Lehwald and Jim Solmen bottled up outside where they couldn't shoot. Combined, this pair made good on only one of eight shots.

Lehwald, who so many times in the past has entered the game to spark a Salem rally, never was allowed a good shot at the hoop by the East defenders. He wound up with nothing in four attempts.

GUARD DAN Krichbaum also got only four shots at the hoop. A foul shot in the third quarter was his only point for the night.

Sharing honors with Snowden for East was little Eddie McElroy. The 5-6 guard peppered away at the hoop from far out for three quarters but drew only goose eggs. Finally in the crucial fourth quarter he found the range, dropping in six points.

His aggressiveness led to numerous steals, causing turnovers which the Quakers couldn't afford last night.

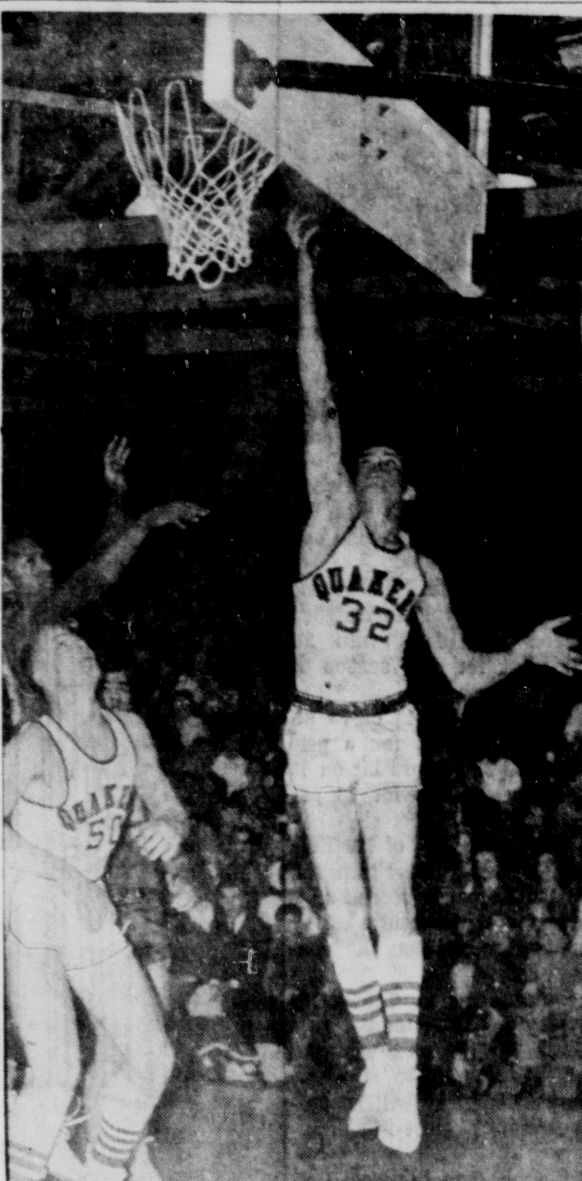

What possibly was the smallest crowd of the year here witnessed East's stunning upset victory. Most of the aisle seats were vacant. The regular seats, as usual, however, were sold out early.

Officials for the game were Phil Dienoff and Paul Tobin, both of Akron.

Salem's next game will be on Saturday night at home against Columbus East.

Shooting and rebounding statistics for the Quakers against Youngstown East are as follows:

QUAKERS FIZZLE — Don Davidson and Dave Hunter, Salem's two top scorers, are shown getting baskets in the first half of the game with Youngstown East here Tuesday night. Points became more scarce in the second half as the Youngstown team rallied to upset the Quakers 42-41. In the upper left picture, Eric Theiss (50) screens out Jim Snowden of East as Davidson dumps in a layup. At right, Hunter seems to be getting a piggy back ride from little Eddie McElroy of East after the Salem star let go with a one-hander.

Loss Is First In 5 Frays for Bulldogs

The Minerva Lions jolted an invading Poland squad Tuesday night 64-51.

Ron Hardgrove paced the victors with 25 markers, while Don Miller followed up with 11.

For the Bulldogs, Rick Hunneke was the big man, netting 16. Jay Yearin scored 11, while Bennett and Zimmer brought home 10 each.

The favored Poland squad got a slight edge in the first stanza, 9-8. By the intermission, the Bulldogs had hiked the lead to 27-23.

The third quarter found the Lions fighting hard to pull ahead. Poland now led slightly, and Minerva took the lead 41-39.

The Lions, defending Tri-County League Champions, have a 4-1 season standing. The Minerva squad will face invading Lisbon Friday night.

This was the Bulldogs' first loss in five outings. The Poland cagers play out to Sebring Friday night when they will seek victory number five.

In the Reserve match, Minerva triumphed 33-29.

Air Force Athletic Director Named

NEW YORK (AP) — When the next football season rolls around a West Point graduate will be the athletic director of the Air Force Academy. And the new appointee Col. Maurice (Marty) Martin thinks the Falcons will beat the Army.

Martin, a member of the '43 class at West Point, was named Tuesday night to succeed Col. George Simler at the Air Force school. Martin said the appointment will be effected next summer.

Martin here for the NCAA convention, said "I just love to play Army and Navy and I think we'll beat them both. The Air Force has a great future athletically."

12-game winning streak over two seasons.

Once again the Quaker Jayvees had a miserable night from the foul line, hitting on only 12 of 34 attempts. East was even worse. It dropped in only eight of 24 free throw tries.

The rough game resulted in 25 fouls being called against East and 18 against Salem. Brown of East fouled out of the game with 5:49 remaining in the second quarter.

Bob Eskay of Salem and Willie Wynn of Youngstown East each had 12 points to take down scoring honors.

Officials for the tilt were Jim Larson of Struthers and George Rupert of New Waterford.

13 NCAA Colleges Under Probe for Rule Infractions

NEW YORK (APP)—The nation's college football coaches, required to both play and recruit the rules, were looking ahead—

To later today, when the powerful policy-making council of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn., was expected to discipline one or more schools who have broken the rules of the NCAA code.

To next week, when fellow coaches who comprise the NCAA Football Rules Committee, meet in Miami Beach, to consider the American Football Coaches Assn.'s recommendation for a return to unlimited substitution.

There were 13 member schools under investigation by the committee on infractions as the 54th annual NCAA convention opened today with round table discussions.

How many of the investigations will result in action by the council was top secret. The NCAA never discloses identity of the schools, unless they are found guilty.

The number currently on probation was reduced to nine Tuesday when Memphis State completed a two-year probationary period, and the NCAA council, satisfied that the institution is living up to the athletic code, restored it to full eligibility. That means Memphis State, with a 7-1 record, will be eligible for an at-large berth in the annual postseason NCAA university division basketball tournament.

The football coaches, conducting their 37th annual meeting, will hear a report today from Lou Little, ex-Columbia coach and chairman of the AFCA football rules committee, in which it is recommended to the NCAA rules committee that free and unlimited substitution be permitted for the first time since 1952, the last of two-platoon seasons.

The chances of the NCAA committee adopting the free substitution rule do not appear to be good. Of the eight coaches or former coaches on the committee, four are known to be opponents of free substitution. They are Dave Nelson of Delaware, Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma, Jess Neely of Rice and John Roning of Denver.

Sebring Trips Lisbon 56-50

Contest Closely Fought All The Way

The Lisbon Blue Devils dropped their third cage encounter of the season Tuesday night when they were defeated 56-50 by a host Sebring Trojan team.

The contest was tight all the way. A single point separated the teams at the end of the first period 12-11, with Sebring holding the narrow margin.

Both teams peppered the baskets at a fast rate in the second stanza, and the score was tied 29-29 at its conclusion. The Trojans forged in front 42-39 in the next period.

Ray Dorr was high for the winners with 17 points. He was followed by Tom Baxter who added 12.

High man for the losers was Paul Fry who scored 16. Charles Faust hit the hoops for 11 and Dick Tanner, 10.

The contest leaves both squads with 1-3 records for the season. Sebring's next contest will be Friday at Poland. Lisbon will travel to Minerva on the same night.

The game opened Tri-County League play for both teams.

In the Jayvee contest, Sebring came out on top 61-55.

East Palestine Nips Columbiana

Wins 50-49 In Final Seconds

Bulldogs Overcome 22-6 1st Period Lead

The East Palestine Bulldogs nipped Columbiana 50-49 when they played host to the Clippers Tuesday night.

Charles Bruno led the victors with 15 markers, while Willis Woods, Jack Istnick, and Chuck Robertson each tallied 11.

For the Clippers, Roger Fritch was the big man with 18. Don Cope added 13 points.

The Columbiana squad burst ahead in the first period 22-6. In the second stanza, the Bulldogs found their target, and quickly slashed the margin to 36-29.

In the third quarter, the Palestine cagers continued to bomb the Clippers' bucket, narrowing the lead to 46-45.

The fourth stanza was tight all the way.

The Bulldogs managed to score in the final seconds and hold the lead till the buzzer.

The victory leaves the Bulldogs with a 3-2 record. They will play host to Louisville Friday night.

The Clippers now stand at 2-3 for the season. They will seek another win Jan. 8 when they invade Leetonia.

In the preliminary tilt, the Columbiana Reserves defeated Palestine 42-32.

Goshen Union Nipped 52-50 By Vienna

Vienna nipped the host Goshen Gophers 52-50 Tuesday night in a cage thriller.

The Vienna squad was paced by Ron Berecek and Lay, both of whom tallied 16 markers. Blake added 14 points.

Lynn Barnett was the big gun for the losers, bringing home 16. Chuck Wilson tallied 11.

Goshen got the jump in the first stanza, 14-8. In the second period, the Gophers padded their margin to 27-19.

In the third quarter, the Vienna squad slashed Goshen's lead one point to 39-32.

The eventual winners surged in the fourth period to take the victory.

The Goshen squad's record is now 2-3 for the season. The Gophers will invade Springfield-Local Saturday night.

In the preliminary tilt, the Goshen Reserves clipped Vienna 40-39. Wallace was the high scorer for the junior Gophers with 16 points.

Reds to Play 45 of 77 Home Games at Night

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds plan to play 45 of their 77 home games at night this year—same as last season.

The Reds open the season, a usual at home, against the Philadelphia Phils on Tuesday, April 12.

The Reds released their home schedule today.

Of the night games, the Reds have mapped out 28 against teams that finished in the first division in 1959—Los Angeles, Milwaukee, San Francisco and Pittsburgh.

United Local Scores 54-40 Victory Over Salineville

A hot United Local team edged the Salineville Indians 54-40 Tuesday night in an exciting tilt fought in Indian territory.

For the Golden Eagles, Jim Summer was the high scorer with 16 markers. Frank Shagnot followed close with 15.

Summer, a 6-1, 210-pound senior is the county's leading scorer. Last night's total brought his mark for the season to 127 points.

The eventual losers were led by Tom Keating, who tallied 14 points. Bud Leatherberry and Dave Geanin brought home 10 apiece.

The United squad gained an edge in the first period 16-9, and was in front 27-25 at the intermission.

Hildebrand Seen As Next Grid Coach At Wake Forest

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP) — Billy Hildebrand is expected to be elevated to the head football coaching position at Wake Forest College Friday at a meeting of the Board of Trustees. Paul Amen submitted his resignation as head coach in a surprise move announced Tuesday.

The 35-year-old Hildebrand, who captained the 1945 Mississippi State team, was Amen's top assistant and handled the line coaching. He had been on Amen's five-man staff since coming here with the department head coach prior to the 1956 season.

Amen, named Atlantic Coast Conference coach of the year twice in his four seasons at Wake Forest, told a news conference he had accepted a position in the personnel department of the Wachovia Bank and Trust Co., one of the South's largest banks.

Amen, 43, notified college officials of his intentions Monday.

His four Wake Forest teams won 11 games, tied 3 and lost 26.

Jackson-Milton Bows To Champion

Champion humbled an invading Jackson-Milton cage squad 75-53 Tuesday night.

The host team took a 13-5 first period lead and was in front at the end of each succeeding frame. The score at the intermission was 31-20 and at the three-quarter mark, 54-33.

Eleven players entered the scoring column for Champion. They were paced by Gresham, who netted 19, and Bernard, who tallied 13.

Jim Reeves was high for the losers with 22. Next for Jackson-Milton was Mike Wolochack who added 14.

The Champion Reserves made it a clean sweep by taking the preliminary contest 51-31.

The loss gives Jackson-Milton a 3-4 record for the year. Its next contest will be Friday when it invades United Local School.

Church Loops To Commence

4 Leagues Await Action Saturday

Opening play in the Church Basketball League will begin Saturday at the Memorial Building and the Junior High gymnasium.

Play will start despite the fact there is an extreme shortage of adults to serve as coaches.

John Dawson, assistant manager of the Memorial Building, urges volunteers to contact him or the ministers of their church. Assistance is badly needed, he explained.

Four loops with the church league will begin play, Class B, C, E and F.

Class D cannot begin until additional teams enter. To date there are only two in this division.

The Saturday schedule follows:

Class B, Memorial Building
1 p.m., 1st Christian vs Friends
2 p.m., Trinity Lutheran vs St. Paul's

3 p.m., Presbyterian vs Baptist
Class C, Junior High School Gym
2 p.m., Methodist vs St. Paul

Perry, Bell Hold Out for More Money

CLEVELAND (AP)—Gary Bell and Jim Perry, two young pitchers on whom the Cleveland Indians will lean heavily next season, are asking more money than is being offered them. General Manager Frank Lane has indicated.

Both Bell and Perry had a good year, but "one good year isn't enough. . . . I think a player should be fully established before getting into the big money class," Lane said.

Bell won 16 games and lost 11 last year. Only seven pitchers in the league won more. Perry turned in a 12-10 record and a 2.58 ERA.

"They'll sign without any trouble," Lane said Tuesday as he pocketed nine more autographed contracts, which bring to 19 the number of players in the Indian wigwag.

One player who may continue balking at terms offered him is Rocky Colavito, Lane added.

Colavito reportedly was offered "a sizable raise," but Lane said the outfielder claimed he is "worth a lot more."

Rocky, who tied for the American League home run lead with 42 last season, is said to be asking about $40,000, some $12,000 more than he received last year. The belief is Lane offered him about $33,000.

Lane said he thinks Rocky was not only less effective at the plate last season, but that his fielding was "atrocious at times and his base running was bad."

Signed contracts were submitted by catcher-coach Ed FitzGerald, Pitcher Jack Harshman, outfielders Carroll Hardy and Chuck Tanner and by rookies Gene Leek, Hal Jones, Carl Thomas, Al Luplow and John McLane.

Salem Freshmen Lose to Alliance

Salem's freshman cagers went down to their second straight defeat after three victories Tuesday as the yearlings from Alliance Stanton Junior High tripped the visiting Quakers 47-43.

After scoring only 13 points in the first half, Alliance exploded for 34 markers in the last two periods. Salem made a rousing comeback of its own in the fourth quarter when the team poured 22 points through the hoop.

However, the third period saw Alliance outscore Salem 16-4. The Quakers found the bulge too much to overcome.

Dick Ehrhart once again paced the Salem freshmen with 11 markers. Bryant accounted for 23 of Stanton's 47 points.

Foss Defends Pair of AFL Contracts

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Commissioner Joe Foss of the American Football League Tuesday night defended two controversial contracts AFL teams have signed with Louisiana State players and said he would take the fledgling loop's troubles before a congressional committee.

Foss called prior and valid contracts the Houston Oilers signed with All-America Billy Cannon and the Dallas Texans signed with Johnny Robinson.

Foss said the two LSU stars "signed immediately upon the completion of their college eligibility, and I must conclude that these contracts are both prior and valid."

The former Marine Corps hero in World War II and twice governor of South Dakota pointed to the abandonment of his football circuit of a franchise in Minneapolis-St. Paul as the result of "harrassment" he believes violates antitrust law.

He said he thought the Senate's Antimonopoly Committee, headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) should know of the stumbling blocks encountered by the AFL.

"Before too many days pass," he said, "I'm going to Washington to visit members of that committee."

Foss said the National Football League repeatedly had refused to even talk about a franchise in Minneapolis-St. Paul until the AFL announced it was going in there.

Then, he charged, the NFL by repeated promises of a franchise for Minneapolis-St. Paul "so confused the situation that AFL interests were unable to get any sort of written agreement for use of the stadium there."

Texas Aggies Cuff Baylor; West Virginia, Kentucky Win

By The Associated Press
The Texas Aggies, suh, have had enough of this also-ran nonsense in Southwest Conference basketball.

Triggered by a smooth-shooting sophomore and a couple of junior college transfers, they're aiming for their first unspunited conference title in 37 years—and building a national reputation while they're at it.

One of the nation's four major college teams still unbeaten, A&M made it nine in a row Tuesday night with a 68-51 cuffing of Baylor that launched the official Southwest race.

With Carroll Broussard the touted sophomore and the Stanley twins—Don and Pat—the junior college newcomers, the Aggies earlier established themselves as the team to beat by sweeping through the SWC's annual Christmas tournament.

Broussard had 15 points, Don Stanley 18 and Pat Stanley 13 for Coach Bobby Rogers' 13th ranked Aggies, who have a right good amount of makin' up to do for previous A&M clubs. A&M hasn't been undisputed champ of the Southwest since 1923.

Third-ranked West Virginia and All-America Jerry West got back on the winning and scoring track, and Adolph Rupp's Kentucky Wildcats—trying to avoid the Baron's Leopards forged ahead shortly afterward and never again relinquished the margin.

The score at the end of the first period was 19-13, and at the half, 35-27. The tally at the three-quarter mark was 41-38.

John Chatelain paced the winners with 18 points. He was followed by Tom Kerstetter who netted 16.

Lee Radler, the county's second highest scorer entering last night's fray, paced the Bears with 21. Radler's total for the season is now 124.

Leetonia scored on 15 of 55 attempts from the field for a percentage of 27. The Bears hit on 9 of 28 free throw tries for 68 per cent.

Louisville sank 21 of 70 field shots for 30 per cent. From the foul line the Leopards scored on 8 of 17 tries for 47 per cent.

Louisville's record for the season is now 2-3.

The contest opened Tri-County League play for both teams.

The Leopard Reserves won the preliminary game 60-28.

Leetonia's next fray will be Friday at home against Columbiana.

Louisville will travel to East Palestine the same evening.

Wilt Hits 52; Philadelphia Wins 126-111

NEW YORK (AP) —There's no stopping Wilt Chamberlain. The 7-foot, 1-inch Philadelphia rookie gets better with every game in the National Basketball Assn.

Wilt popped in 52 points against the Minneapolis Lakers in leading his team to a 128-111 victory at Madison Square Garden Tuesday night. He dunked 20 field goals.

Most of his shots were made while surrounded by two or three Lakers. He made them from under the basket, from outside, and from the sides.

The 250 - pound Giant also grabbed 20 rebounds, deflected 10 Laker shots, and was a general nuisance around the boards to the Lakers in the doubleheader.

The 52 total was his second high in the NBA. He hit for 55 against Cincinnati.

"He's just fantastic," remarked Joe Lapchick, coach of St. John's and former pilot of the New York Knickerbockers. "He has such wonderful coordination for such a big fellow and does everything well."

Philadelphia's triumph spoiled Jim Pollard's coaching debut with the Lakers. In the second game, Playing Coach Carl Braun sparked his New York Knicks to a 121-110 triumph over the Detroit Pistons. In the only other game of the night, the Syracuse Nationals came from behind to whip the slipping, crippled Boston Celtics, 145-143, in overtime at Providence, R. I.

It was the fourth loss in five games for Boston's Eastern Division leaders. Despite that slump the Celtics still are 5½ games in front of Philadelphia. Syracuse is 8½ games behind the leaders and New York trails by 15.

By RUFUS LIDE

I would like to remind all persons having wild birds or wild animals in captivity that they must make application for a permit to keep these birds or animals before they are in legal possession.

To obtain a permit, you must contact the local game protector in the county in which you reside and request an application blank. He will issue you a blank questionnaire which you must fill out and return to the game protector for his OK.

He will forward the application through the proper channels, and the permit will be mailed to you by the Ohio Division of Wildlife headquarters in Columbus.

PERSONS HAVING wild birds or animals legally taken during the open season should make application immediately to keep them. In the case of raccoon, you have 15 days to make application after the season closes Feb. 29.

Once you have received the proper permit, it must be renewed each year by March 15; otherwise you will be in illegal possession of wild game and subject to arrest.

Night hunting for opossum, raccoon and skunk ends Feb. 13 in Zone 1. Feb. 19 ends night hunting in Zone 2 which includes Columbiana County.

The digest of laws furnished each hunter who buys a license explains in detail the hunting regulations.

If you don't have one, you may still obtain one from any license dealer.

I AM ADVISED the price of fur is up a little over last year. Raccoon pelts bring from $1.50 to a high of $2.35. Raccoon fur has gained some popularity this year, and if you don't believe it, just price one of the garments trimmed with a raccoon pelt.

It is hard to understand why a fur as pretty as fox fur does not regain popularity. At present fox fur is practically worthless.

Mike Lutsch of Westville tells me that he and Bill Fryogle have taken 80 'coon so far this season. This includes those taken in Pennsylvania where the season opens earlier than in Ohio.

At this rate, before the season ends, they will be able to buy dog food and have a little cash left over, not to mention the fun they had.

THIS TIME last year ice fishing was on in full swing. At present writing there's very little ice and not enough to freeze over the lakes. Once the ice freezes, Westville Lake will become a winter "shanty town." Practically all the fishermen living out there have an ice shanty.

When it comes to feeding, fish behave practically the same during the winter as any other time of the year. They bite best early in the morning to about 10 a.m., then quit. Then they start all over at 3:30 p.m. and continue to bite until dark.

Bluegills provide the main sport, while an occasional bass is taken, along with quite a few crappies at times.

29 Met Death At Football Last Year

NEW YORK (AP)—Football in 1959 resulted in death to 29 players, the largest total since 1947, and four came from heat exhaustion—a danger never previously recognized.

These figures were revealed today in the annual report prepared by Dr. Floyd Eastwood of Los Angeles City College and presented to the American Football Coaches Assn. and the NCAA Football Rules Committee.

As a result, the AFCA Committee on Injuries and Fatalities strongly recommended lighter practice whenever the temperature exceeds 80-85.

Since the survey was begun in 1931, there has been only one previous death due to heat exhaustion. During the past season, one college player, Charles Lohr of the University of Maryland, and three high school players died of heat strokes after practicing in very hot weather.

These four deaths were among 11 attributed indirectly to football. There were 18 resulting directly from football injuries, most of them to the head and neck.

Of the direct injuries, seven were incurred in high school football, six in sandlot games, two in semipro football and three in college football.

Head Bowling Field

OMAHA (AP) — Defending champions Billy Welu and Marion Ladewig and eight former champions head a field of 336 bowlers going after a record $60,000 in prize money at the National All-Star Bowling Tournament, opening in Omaha Thursday.

Welu, of St. Louis will pocket $10,000 if he wins again and Mrs. Ladewig, of Grand Rapids, Mich., will collect $5,000 with another title.

Former champions in the field also include Don Carter, Bill Lillard, Steve Nagy, Dick Hoover, Anita Cantaline and Sylvia Wene.
